The Daily Standard Monday, December 1st, 1873. The City Hall By-Law. If the resolutions passed at the public meet ing, held at the Alhambra Hall ou Friday evening, may be taken as a fair expression of public epinion on the subject of the proposition of the Municipal Council to raise the sum of sixteen thousand dollars by an additional rate of one tenth of one per cent, upon the assessed value of the real estate within the corporate limits, for the purpose of purthereon, then we may reasonably expect that the ratepayers will put their veto upon the by-law when the opportunity rhall be offered them to do so on the 10th instant. It strikes us the Council could scarcely have chosen a more unfavorable time than the present for placing such a scheme before the people. Not only are the ratepayers laboring under the disadvantage of dull times and extreme scarbity of money, but owing to difficulties that have arisen with the Dominion Government, and the change of Administration that has recently taken place at Ottawa, the comcoment of the Pacific Railway and other percent works has been deferred, givier Tria Juncta in Uno. public mind, which has exerted a very depressing influence upon trade and upon the value of real property ; and when to all this is added the fact that the rate of taxation upon real estate has been trebled this year as compared with last year, it is not at all to be THEATRE ROYAL wondered at that people shrug their shoulders and view with alarm any proposition baving in view the imposition of any additional burden upon real property for a Town Hall, This Evening, December 1st. or for any other purpose. We must confess we see no real present necessity for going into this matter. It is alleged by certain now when it can be purchased cheaply, whereas if it be deferred for a year or two. theger property will most likely go up in The Great Protean Artist, in his Celebrated value, and the Council will have to pay very much more for fa site then than they would now. We admit there is some force in this argument, and so far as securing a suitable site for a Town Hall, to be erected at some future period when times are better and money more plentiful, we do not see that any reasonable objection can be offered thereto. But that might be done without asking the people to endorse a by-law to involve the city in an additional debt of sixteen thousand dellars, to bear interest at the rate of nine per cent. per annum for a period of twenty years. It Office open at the Theatre at 11 a.m. seems to us that before incurring additional liabilities for matters that can very well be done without for some time to come yet, it would be well to wait a while and see how we are going to come out in respect of the water works enterprise. For that matter the real estate of the city is already pledged to the extent of one hundred thousand dollars, and bow much more will be required before is brought to completion, has yet to be determined. The municipal year is now drawto a close, and before the ratepayers conshould take time to look into the operations of the present year when it is brought to a close, and see what use has been made of the large amount of revenue that has passed through the hands of the present Mayor and be Registrar under the "Marriage Ordinance de Registrar under the "Marr Council. At the close of the Municipal year Amendment Act, 1872." oft will be the duty of the Council to lay before the ratepayers a detailed statement of the receipts and expenditures of the Corporation for the past year, and then they will be in possession of all the facts in relation to the water works, what debentures have been sold and what remain unsold, how much so work has been done and the cost thereof. what has been received and what expended on other account, what the prospect is for the future, and what necessity there was for the Council to treble the rate of taxation this M.I. # the Age.

Passing by this subject, the spirit of the age recognizes unification, or openess of the numan family, amongst its prominent festares; difficulties of communication formerly kept mankind at a distance from each other, favoring, from want of more intimate acquaintance, many unworthy prejudices. But loaded revolver under his pillow exhibits the he wonderful agencies of steam and electriity have broken down those barriers, and rought those who were formerly strangers o each other, face to face. Obstacles to close relationship, however, now often arise from the different languages spoken ; to obviate which, some ingenious man in the last entury set about constructing an artificial language for general adoption,—but on com-pletion, it was found impracticable,—and like the experiment of the Graphic balloon, at the moment of supposed success, proved a failure. Hitherto the French language has been the favored medium of communication amongst those of different nationalities; the Shah of Pereia could express himself in that auguage, but the probabilities are that the English language, from its universality, will of the nation for a change of rulers than disat no distant time be the favored language. Some eminent Swiss writer,-a Professor Candolle,—has figured that at the end of the next century, the number of Frenchmen will tablished Church, and if disestablishment be 60,000,000, and of Germans, 70,000,000, its fate, it will be precipitated by its intestice but that of those speaking English there will be 760,000,000 ! The vi-it of the Shah to Europe may resusci-tate fallen Persia. The Duks of Edinburgh's marriage may curb Russia's desire to en-croach in British India. England's addition to her Navy may make her so secure in her sea-girt home that the idea mooted in the observation of General Blucher on noticing London's wealth, of "Mein Gott, what a town to sack," would become an impossibility.

Monarchy may be a slave to France. Republicanism in Spain a dangerous thing to play with. Cæsarism in America valuable matter for newspaper controversy. The collapse of the Graphic balloon the necessity of more precaution. Religious pilgrimages may become contagious, one to Jerusalem has already been mooted. The jury's ver-dict cause the Claimant to become Sir Reger Tichborne or it may send him back to Australia to figure in a new character. To begin, the armed attitude of Europe shows that powerful armies and navies are regarded as the best guarantee for the maintenance of peace, and although Queen Victoria's speech to Parliament may speak of friendly assurances received from foreign powers, the con tinued increase of her navy, and the maintenance of a large standing army and volun-teer force shows the kind of value stached such friendly assurances. The traveller COMMISSION MERCHANTS who on retiring to rest for the night places a same sense of security. The proposed mar-riage of the Duke of Edinburgh to a Russian Princess shows the desire of crowned heads o draw closer together in face of the unsettled state of France, and Spain, and the inroads of Democratic principles. In the political world the increasing growth of England's conservative party shows the feeling that a solution of the problem of how far political freedom can be enjoyed without endangering the state has been arrived at, that the galloping pace of the Gladstone Ministry must be checked, and matured deliberation precede further operations. The increase of the conservative party, however, and probable overthrow of the Gladstone Ministry is rather evidence of the restlessnes atisfaction of the present Ministry, the vener ation associated with old countries has hither to afforded indulgent forbearance to the Established Church, and if disestablishment be its fate, it will be precipitated by its intestine divisions rather than from attacks from with-
